Ethics Act Compliance Guidance Regarding "Works" - United Academics Faculty

(The two documents upon which this guidance is based run to more than 50 pages. Summarizing laws or contracts in an effort to simplify or state something in plain english risks misstating the law or contract. Since the University cannot modify the law or contract and does not intend to do so, it is important to note that the following summary is based on Alaska Law and the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the University of Alaska and United Academics. You are responsible for complying with the law itself. The actual terms of the CBA will govern in the event of any dispute.)

Faculty are not prohibited by the Alaskae Entive Branch Ethics ation. This is determined by the extent, if any, of University suport provided, which general falls into one of three categories (see below), but is subject to any overriding ligations of the University.

Supported works—are works which are not specifically commissioned onspred by the University, but are created using funds, personnel, facilities, equipment, materials or technological information (resour provided or arranged for by the University a faculty member creates a "work" in the course of supported activities, and this work may expected to result in additional compensation from sources outside the University, the faculty meber must disclose the work in additional compensation from sources outside the University, the faculty meber must disclose the work in additional compensation from sources outside the University, the faculty meber must disclose the work in additional compensation from sources outside the University and United Academics, fare the collective bargaining agreement between the University and external funding perces may vary ownership rights.

Sponsored Works – are works that have been specificallyncoissioned by the University, or which are supported as a work for hire by such means as a specificalle release or overlap ayment. Generally, sponsored works are the sole property of the University, and all proceeds are retained by the University.

Independent Works — the ideas came from the faculty member, whork is not based on information obtained during University employmenthich has not been disseminated the public, and no University support, including time allocated creative activity, has been used in the created work. This is ficial duties, including opportunities, that has not been publicly disseminated, an independent work may be discult or impossible. While an independent work allows you to retain all interests and proceeds, it must truly be separate from your University employment, and you should ensur that you have and use separate business facilities cluding but not limited toomputer, phone, address, etc., and refrain from using any University stop TJ0.0001Tc -22.26 -15 Td[Uni)@versity num)2(bersáddresses,
